Council Reorganizes With Same Lineup; McCormick Again Street Inspector

"Bill" Receives Three of Five Votes Cast for the Office.

O. C. HARMON RESIGNS

City Clerk Will Return to Title & Trust Bank and is Succeeded by Chester McKesson; Hoenshel Re-Elected Engineer; Meeting Tonight.

Following the adjournment of the former City Council sine die, at 10.10 o'clock this morning, after the reading of the minutes of the previous session, the reorganization process was carried out, with City Clerk O. C. Harmon administering the oaths of office to Jesse A Cypher and Benjamin L. Berg, both having been re-elected, at the November election Fred Roher, elected city treasurer, was also sworn in at the same session.

Immediately this ceremony had been completed a resolution naming the heads of the various departments was passed There are no changes and the personnel still is:

Mayor C. C. Mitchell, head of the Department of Public Affairs

Councilman C M Stone, head of the Department of Accounts and Finance.

Councilman Jesse A. Cypher, head of the department of Public Safety.

Councilman B L. Berg head of the Departments of Streets and Public Improvements.

Councilman James W. Wardley, head of the Department of Parks and Public Property.

Following this step the business of the session was taken up, attention for a time being given to the appointments for vacancies in various positions.

The first matter to be brought before Council was the naming of a street inspector. Two applications were read by Superintendent Berg. One was from the present inspector, William McCormick, and the other from J. L Stillwagon.

Councilman Berg then placed a resolution before Council, supporting Mr. McCormick. The vote was three for him and two against. The nayes were voted by Mayor Mitchell and Councilman Stone. Mr McCormick is elected for a period of two years.

The resignation of O. C. Harmon as city clerk was accepted He will return on January 16 to the Title & Trust Company's bank where he was formerly employed. Chester K. McKesson, at present a salesman for the Scisson Fire Brick Company, was named to succeed Mr. Harmon.

George L. Armstrong of the West Side was re-appointed a member of the Board of Health, for a period of five years. His term had expired.

Joseph E Hoenshel was re-elected city engineer, for the next four years.

Fred Moon was re-elected city electrician. His term is for the succeeding year.

Councilman Berg said he had been approached by some Snydertown residents, living beyond the city limits, who were desirous of connecting with the city sewer. They were willing, he said to pay all the costs. The city engineer explained it would be necessary to lower the city sewer two or three feet to get the required drop. It was determined to submit an agreement to those people and if they were then willing to go ahead with the proposition the matter would again be taken up.

A petition from residents of Gallatin avenue, in Stahl Square, was also presented It called attention to the insanitary condition of the sidewalk along the building occupied by the Farmers' Coöperative Dairy Association. During the wet season, it declared, trucks and wagons caused so much mud to be deposited on the walk that pedestrians are greatly hampered and inconvenienced. It was recommended that some ashes could be used to advantage. Mayor Mitchell told council this matter had already been attended to and the petition was accepted and placed on file. It was signed by about 20 property-holders.

Bids from two banks for depository of city funds for the years 1924-1925 were received. The Title & Trust was the highest bidder, with an offer of 3.125 per cent. The Second National Bank was the other bidder with 3.1 per cent.

The Courier Job Department was awarded the contract of printing 300 copies of the 10th annual report of the city. The figure bid by the company was $146.25.

The opening session was attended by only a few persons. There were seven women and four men present, aside from those usually seen at council meetings.

Council adjourned to meet again at 7 o'clock this evening when more routine matters will be cleaned up.

Stockholders to Meet.

Stockholders of the Down Draft Heating Company will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the plant on North First street, West Side.

No Police Court.

There was no police court this morning, no arrests being made over night

New Records Made By Connellsville Radio Enthusiasts

Radio fans have been having their troubles since Christmas owing to interference from other receiving sets in the hands of inexperienced operators Few owners of sets realize at the start that they can be a source of annoyance almost equal to that of a sending station. As a consequence they let their tubes howl without realizing that they are setting up a whistle in the tubes of every other set for blocks around When they hear similar whistles they are inclined to blame static or some other condition.

In spite of interference of this nature, an unusual number of commercial stations on the air around 475 meters, local broadcasters and an annoying leak in a high tension power line, some excellent records have been made by receivers during the past few cold nights. One of the best has been that of William Friend, Jr., of the West Side, who brought in Davenport, Iowa, on a simple crystal set. The ordinary crystal set can be depended upon to get no farther than the Pittsburg stations, but Friend says he gets Schenectady, Newark, New York and other distant stations. He has brought in Davenport on three different occasions. The set consists of a crystal detector and a loose coupler.

George S. Connell, operating a three-tube reflex set, had a field day early this morning Between midnight and 1:30 A. M. he heard, on a loud speaker, KHJ and KFI at Los Angeles, KPO at San Francisco, KLZ at Denver, and Frank Jones' station, "the call of the cuckoo clock" at Tiunen, Cuba.

West Penn forces have been endeavoring for some weeks past to locate a leak in the transmission line along South Pittsburg street. The disturbance caused by this leak has seriously interfered with satisfactory broadcast reception, but up to the present efforts to remedy the situation have been unavailing

The sound is similar to that of a strong code station, a coarse-toned buzz breaking through and drowning out every other sound Hopes are expressed that this trouble will soon be located.

One source of annoyance which for a time existed at the American Manganese Manufacturing Company's plant at Dunbar has been remedied and a portion of the plant which was emitting disturbances has been shut down.

OHIOPYLE PUPILS AWARDED PRIZES IN AN ESSAY CONTEST

Special to The Courier.

OHIOPYLE, Jan 7.—Rev. Joseph B. Thomas, pastor of the Ohiopyle Baptist Church, recently offered three prizes to the pupils of the public schools for essays written on the subject, "How to Improve Our Town." About 50 pupils entered the contest.

Those winning prizes were: Goldie Jackson, Leola Woodmency and Adeline Potter.

Last Friday evening a community service was held at the Baptist Church at which the pastor read some of the compositions and gave a review of others. Grading points in the compositions were:

Better electric lights, better streets and roads, improvements of houses, ideal services, good schools, with perfect attendance, and respect for good teachers, enforcement of laws, especially those relating to sale of strong drink and tobacco, an active board of health and the love of God in the hearts of all the people.

To Test Third Class City Act

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Test of the constitutionality of the act under which boroughs vote to determine whether they shall become third class cities will begin in the Washington county courts. Attorney General George W. Woodruff having consented to use the name of the commonwealth in the action challenging the right of officials of the new city of Washington to hold office. The proceeding is the first in several years and raises the point, said not to have been covered in any of the previous tests, that the act of 1915, authorizing the elections, offends against the constitution.

Instead of the proceeding being heard in the Dauphin County Court it will be presented at Washington, where all of the interested parties reside, and will be watched closely by officials of other third class cities, including Monessen and Sharon, which were among those voting under the act to become third class cities.

BRETHREN DEDICATE NEW CHURCH

Sum of $1,320 Raised at Three Services Under Adverse Conditions.

DR. C. C. ELLIS SPEAKER

With the temperature hovering near zero, members of the Church of the Brethren and friends joined Sunday in the dedication of the new edifice of the Church of the Brethren at Vine street and Newmyer avenue erected during the summer and fall at a cost of $10,000, exclusive of the site.

No statement was available today on what amount of money has been provided toward financing of the church, except that at the services of the dedication day $1,320 11 was raised. The cold weather was a severe handicap

At the morning service when the church was formally dedicated by Dr C. C Ellis of Huntingdon the sum of $637 76 was raised In the afternoon, at a community service, $448.16 was reported. The evening contribution was $34.19

A feature of the dedicatory program was the afternoon service at which time addresses were made by Dr. William H Hetrick Dr. Bennett W. Hutchinson and Rev. J L. Proudfit, in addition to Dr. Ellis.

In the evening Dr. Ellis again occupied the pulpit

At noon women of the church served dinner to about 100 persons in the dining room of the church.

Beginning tonight there will be revival services, conducted by Rev. E M. Detwiler of Johnstown, with the pastor, Rev. J. A. Buffenmyer assisting

Recognize Russia, Let in Communism, Lodge's Argument

By United Press

WASHINGTON, Jan 7.—Recognition of Russia now would subject the United States to a "pestilence of Communist propaganda," Senator Lodge, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, asserted today, in a 10,000-word speech to the Senate, telling why the Administration was opposing recognition.

"Recognition would mean," Lodge said, "that every industrial center in the country would have a Russian consul who would in reality be a Communist propagandist.

"The question of immediate danger to the government of the United States by revolution or insurrection is not the point here," said Lodge. "The question is whether you are going to permit the spread of pestilence through the country A very sure way of permitting it to spread is by recognizing the people who are undertaking to spread doctrines that would strike at the foundations of free organized society and seek to destroy the principles which have made the United States what it is"

Most of Lodges' speech was devoted to proving that Russia is completely in control of Communists, who also control the third International which means for extension of Communism in other countries

LONDON, Jan. 7—"Even in the most hostile quarters it is now generally accepted that recognition of the Russian government by Great Britain is certain."

In making this statement today Charles Trevelyn who probably will be a member of Ramsay McDonald's first cabinet when the king calls on that Labor leader to form a government, added

"It is highly probable one of the first acts of the Labor government will be recognition of the soviet government."

BOMB FOR KEMAL WOUNDS HIS WIFE

By United Press

ATHENS, Jan 7—Madame Mustapha Kemal, wife of the president of the Turkish republic, was wounded by a hand grenade thrown at her husband by an unknown person, according to a dispatch from Smyrna.

Mustapha Kemal was not injured. The assailant escaped

Venizelos Forced To Retire Because Of Heart Attack

ATHENS, Jan. 7.—Ill health has forced Eleutherios Venizelos to resign the leadership of Greek affairs Returning from his exile in France, Venizelos was no sooner elected president of the National Assembly than a troublesome heart forced him to retire

The former premier wrote to his followers that they must elect another leader from the ranks of the Liberal party and that if one could be found ready to undertake formation of a cabinet Venizelos was determined to resign.

Missionaries of Christian Church Menaced by Bandits

By United Press.

PEKIN, China, Jan. 7—Ten Americans are surrounded by Thibetan bandits in the city of Batang, in western Sze Chuan, and are in imminent danger of starvation, according to reports to the American legation here. Other foreigners are likewise trapped.

The savage Thibetans poured over the border into China recently, the reports stated, and surrounded the walled city of Batang, burning and looting all surrounding towns. Chinese garrisons of the district fled or had disappeared shortly after the appearance of the savages and assistance is declared to be impossible for weeks

The Americans trapped are M H. Duncan, his wife and son and M H. Hardy, his wife and three sons, all of the Foreign Christian Missionary Society and J. R. Forse and wife of the United Christian Mission

Batang, where American missionaries are menaced by Thibetan bandits, is in the extreme western part of China, a few miles from the mountainous frontier of Thibet. It lies 1,500 miles west-southwest of Pekin, in an isolated part of Sze Chuan province

If the Chinese garrison along the border has fled as reported, the missionaries have been left in dire peril, for the ferocious little flat-faced brown men of the hills are among the most feared of bandits

Defending their own country and denying entry to foreigners with a religious ferocity, the Thibetan hordes are almost savages who, they resort to sorties into neighboring China. They are merciless to captives and notoriously without regard for women and children.

William Wilson Named Jail Warden After Deadlock

After several futile ballots this afternoon the Fayette County Prison Board, following a conference, switched from Hugh Gorley and John J. Smith to Deputy Sheriff William Wilson, electing him jail warden. Wilson had already been retained as chief deputy by Sheriff John Q. Adams.

A tie had developed on Gorley and Smith which made it apparent neither could be elected

Mrs. Wilson will become matron at the jail. The salary of the warden is $2,000 a year. That of the matron, $60 a month

Ross Wilson, Fred Moorehouse and William Haines were elected turnkeys

The other deputy on the sheriff's staff is Edward Brady

Deputy William Bishop will engage in business it is understood, probably locating in Uniontown

Ministerial Ass'n Endorses Library Support by Taxes

At a meeting of the Connellsville Ministerial Association, held this morning, the body passed a resolution endorsing the plan of support for the Carnegie Free Library on the millage basis.

The resolution will be called to the attention of City Council. It is felt that the millage basis is the proper way to make an equalized distribution of the burden among the people of the community

At the meeting the committee in charge of the prosecution of Sunday football case against the Connellsville Tornadoes, reported the matter was still before the court."

THOMAS ROBINS PROTHONOTARY OF SUPREME COURT

Appointment Taken Up Mean W. Harry Baker Will Remain State G. O. P. Head.

PARTY LINES STRONGER

By United Press

HARRISBURG, Jan. 7.—One of the most far-reaching moves from a political standpoint appears to have been made by the State Supreme Court in an appointment to fill the vacancy of prothonotary caused by the death of former Governor Stone four years ago.

Thomas Robins, Philadelphia club man, attorney and financier, today succeeded to the Supreme Court prothonotaryship, a position coveted as such as any state office because of the prestige it brings.

Among those prominently mentioned as candidates for the office was Chairman W Harry Baker of the Republican State Committee. It had been understood the place was being held for him until retirement from his present duties

Politicians here can see only one effect from this move as far as Baker is concerned Baker has been working with tireless energy to hold the party together in this State and it is believed the way has been paved for him to become definitely seated in his present position

Robins was an enthusiastic supporter of Theodore Roosevelt He was also a supporter of the Vares in Philadelphia With one stroke, it is claimed the party has been strengthened from two distinct quarters The appointment is likewise considered important in view or the fact that it cannot possibly be met with disfavor by Governor Pinchot, although made independent of his wishes

Commissioners Elect Langley As President

John S Langley was elected president of the board of county commissioners at the reorganization meeting at noon today in Uniontown George W Hibbs was named vice-president and C. H McClelland secretary

Youngwood Man Insane.

GREENSBURG, Jan 7.—William Altman, who ran amuck in Youngwood, December 21, 1915, shot and killed Eddie Newhouse five years old, and wounded three other persons was brought to the county jail, Saturday, by Sheriff Black from the Western Penitentiary. Altman who has become insane, will be transferred to the Fairview Hospital for Insane some time this week.

Stolen Stocks and Bonds Worth $2,400 Returned to Widow of Mt. Pleasant Man; Taken During Funeral

Special to The Courier

MOUNT PLEASANT, Jan. 7.—As mysteriously as they disappeared on the morning of October 7, 1923, while Mrs. Catherine Povlak and her family were at mass for her late husband, Frank Povlak, $2 400 worth of liberty bonds and steel stock were returned to the widow yesterday morning, she finding them at her back door. Povlak had died on October 4. While the members of the family were at the Transfiguration Church at mass the bonds and securities were stolen.

Mrs. Povlak had duplicates secured. Whether the thief realized what a difficult task it would be to get cash for the securities and how easily they could be traced, or whether the return was the result of remorse, or whether it was a New Year resolution it is not known.

Mrs. Povlak refused to discuss the matter, saying she wished no publicity in the matter and that she did not want it in the papers, but persons instrumental in the securing of duplicates and helping with the search for the bonds were more ready to talk.

Transporting Beehive Coke More Costly to Railroads Than Handling Soft Coal

Former Variable in Quantity, Heavy Movement Coming at Peak of Traffic.

TAKES MORE EQUIPMENT

To Handle a Given Tonnage, Causing Greater Number of Idle Car-Days, Train Miles and Car Miles of Empty Movement; Rates Discriminatory.

All that has preceded in the complaint is by way of introduction to the real object which is to have established "coking-in-transit" rates applicable to by-product coking at the Swedeland plant. Preliminary to arguments in behalf of this system of rate structure reference is made to the recommendation of the United States Coal Commission, which follows:

"Consideration should be given by the railroads to the establishment of coking-in-transit rates Coal is coked at the mines in beehive ovens, a wasteful process now giving way to coking in by-product ovens that save the gas, tar, ammonia, benzol and other products The by-product coking industry has developed rapidly in the past 10 years without having coking-in-transit rates and the railroads in their statements to this commission point to that record as evidence that such rates are not essential to the further development of the by-product coke industry In this way they are unmindful of the fact that the growth thus far has been in connection with the iron and steel industry The ovens for steel companies are built at the point of consumption of the coke and there has been no question of rates for transportation of the coke beyond

"There is however, a large and growing field for the growth of this industry in the direction of supplying gas and coke for municipal and household use This requires that the ovens be located at or near large cities. A few such plants have been built. The gas is piped to the consumers, but the coke must be transported by rail The coal must be carried to the ovens by rail There is now no relationship between the two rates The coke from such ovens must compete with beehive coke shipped direct from ovens at the mines, or with anthracite The beehive coke and anth acite are carried on through rates The coal from mines to by-product ovens and coke from these ovens to consumer are carried on two rates (the one a coke usually a little local rate) which, combined, are much higher than a through rate would be

A coking-in-transit rate would be a competitive through rate by which the coal would be carried from mines to ovens and after conversion into coke, transported beyond to the consumer Such rates will advance the by-product coking industry and the conservation of natural resources

There is nothing novel in the proposal of coking-in-transit rates. A parallel situation is found in the milling-in-transit rates by which wheat is transported to the mills converted to flour and several by-products and the flour carried beyond to consumers The conversion of wheat by milling is of a like character with that involved in the conversion of coal by coking"

Reduces Cost to Carriers.

Applying this reasoning to the case in hand it is contended that, "In the actual handling of the transportation of bituminous coal to complainant's plant, the traffic moves substantially in train load lots or at least in groups or drafts of numerous cars per train, largely if not entirely originating at one or a few mines, and the gathering, handling and terminal or delivery service required to be performed by the carriers is at a minimum, in contrast both to usual traffic in bituminous coal used directly for steam or gas fuel purposes and to the traffic in beehive coke. The service to complainant required from respondents is therefore far less costly in these respects than the service required in handling beehive coke and the usual traffic in coal for general fuel purposes

"The outbound movement of coke from the complainant's plant to the industries affords participating respondents profitable traffic which would not be available if the requirements of the industries were supplied with coke from the Connellsville or Latrobe districts. The complainant also affords participating respondents a profitable traffic in shipment of the by-products from complainant's plant which would not be available to respondents if the coal converted at the complainant's plant were manufactured into coke in the Connellsville District."

The contention is raised that the carriers serving the beehive coke ovens are adversely affected by the conditions surrounding the industry It is declared that the rail movement of beehive coke "is not regular or constant but is variable in quantity over wide ranges, the heavy movement at times of industrial activity when railroad facilities are in greatest demand and use and taxed to their utmost, and the light movement coming at the times that other transportation demands upon the carriers are correspondingly reduced and their facilities comparatively idle.

"Rail transportation of beehive coke is therefore upon the peak of transportation demands and forms a relatively large component thereof. The revenue to the carriers therefrom is not constant or reliable but variable over wide ranges. Moreover, the beehive coke industry does not pos-

Wife Tells How Noted Novelist Wrecked Home

By United Press.

MADISON, Conn, Jan. 7.—"Nina Wilcox Putnam tried to persuade me to give up my husband, so that she could marry him. When I would not, he went away with her."

Her head held high, and no suspicion of a tear in her brown eyes, Mrs Ellsworth Bassett today told how the celebrated women novelist had practically kidnapped Bassett, a strapping six-foot Connecticut clam digger, and carried him away from his home and baby as the writer's "personal representative."

"Well, Mrs. Putnam may have her own peculiar idea of right and wrong and other women's husbands, but I have my baby boy and I must carry on," Mrs Bassett said.

"Mrs Putnam used to talk to me about my husband and her ideas of how wrong it was for people to live together as man and wife just because they were married when they were no longer in love. She was very friendly with my husband last spring but I had no suspicion anything was wrong until he went with her to Canada after I had refused to divorce him

"That was in June that she talked to me and on the first day of July they left together Since then my husband has not been back, except to see the boy."

Since Bassett left his home here the wife has worked night and day to support herself Each morning and until 2 P M she is the town librarian. Each afternoon and into the evening she works at the Madison postoffice

COLD WAVE OF SHORT DURATION; ZERO IN CITY

The climax of the cold wave which has gripped the city since Friday night was reached over Saturday night when the mercury in the official thermometer fell to zero and in a number of other places throughout the city temperatures showing from one to five below zero were reported

Last night the lowest record was six degrees and this morning the atmosphere had warmed to 28 degrees at 11 30 o'clock.

The warmest Saturday was 14 degrees and yesterday the highest was 15 degrees

The weather is the coldest that has fallen on this city in two years There was nothing last winter which came near to touching the spell which seemed to be breaking today

The Yough River has fallen rapidly since the onset of the cold wave. The river this morning was reported to be at a height of 4.90 feet, a fall in less than three days of nine feet.

Traffic in the city streets was very light Saturday and there was none to speak of yesterday. Saturday night business was also very light.

A number of water pipes were frozen up over the week-end but no fires, due to carelessness in thawing them out, were reported

Eight below zero was reported at Indian Head and lower temperatures in some places, according to varying thermometers

Boils

THERE is a reason for everything that happens. Common-sense kills misery. Common-sense also stops boils! S. S. S. is the common-sense remedy for boils, because it is built on reason. Scientific authorities admit its power! S. S. S. builds blood-power. It builds red-blood-cells. That is what makes fighting-blood. Fighting blood destroys impurities. It fights boils. It fights pimples! It fights skin eruptions! It always wins! Mr. V. D. Schaff, 867 15th street, Washington, D. C., writes:

"I tried for years to get relief from a bad case of boils. Everything failed until I took S. S. S. I am now absolutely cured, and it was S. S. S. that did it."

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

FIFTY PERISH AS RESULT OF SEVERE COLD

NEW YORK, Jan. 7—Approximately 50 persons died during the past 60 hours as the result of the intense cold wave that has swept the middle West, and is now centering in the East and South.

Many of the victims were frozen to death, others succumbed to exposure, still others were burned to death while seeking escape from the cold and others met death in accidents due to icy conditions

Chicago leads with a total of 13, New Orleans is next with six, St. Louis reported five, Pittsburg four and Philadelphia three.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes are sold annually at 15c and 30c.

Use Ribbon to Make Boudoir Lamp Shades

A rather odd but attractive shade for the boudoir lamp can be made in a few minutes, with a few yards of No. 2 ribbon Two shades of ribbon or a two-toned ribbon should be used. The ribbon is cut into uneven lengths varying from twelve to sixteen inches These are laid together so that all the ends are even at one point and uneven at the other They are tied together three inches from the even ends, so that a cluster of ribbon ends decorates the center top of the shade. The odd ends swing across the top of the drumlike shade and hang in uneven lengths, each culminating in a colored bead The foundation for this decoration is a small wire frame covered with plain gold or rose silk or taffeta ribbon. The narrow ribbons swing freely over this, hanging fringe-like below the bottom.

A Needed Lesson.

One Mother Says:

My girls, 12, 14 and 16, were very untidy and careless about leaving their belongings anywhere, instead of putting them away. For one whole week I refrained from putting away anything for any one of them. After seven days of confusion, lost articles, wasted time, and an uninviting house for their friends to come into, they saw the point and began to correct their own shortcoming.

Text of Report on Greatest Service To Kiwanis Club

At the noon luncheon Wednesday the Kiwanis Club will ballot to determine who of five candidates suggested by a committee delegated to do so rendered the greatest service to the community during 1923. Following is the full text of the report submitted last week:

"The committee appointed by your president to suggest the names of the five persons who had done the most for Connellsville, or the most in unselfish endeavor during the past year, has attended to that assignment.

"It might be well to explain to your body the method by which these recommendations were arrived at. During the past week we have had suggestions from many sources, and what we thought at first would be a difficult undertaking resolved itself into one of elimination. Many persons who were recommended to us that are not recommended here we found would qualify admirably. Consequently, it became our duty to choose from this list those whom we thought would best qualify. We will name them in alphabetical order, and not necessarily from their importance.

"We recommend R. C. Bledsoe, the head of the police department of this division of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. We find that he has been untiring in his efforts to make Connellsville a better town in which to live, and has gone beyond the line of his duty, (Baltimore & Ohio Railroad police officer), to apprehend and bring to justice the criminal menace to the citizenry of Connellsville. We would further say that he is not only an efficient officer, but a gentleman, and constantly serving the public as it comes in contact with the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company.

"We next recommend Gaetano Corrado, who has done more for the uplift of the Italian element of our city than any other man. He has been charitable in the extreme, and has never left a stone unturned to better the welfare of this community.

"We then have on our list Ross B. Matthews, the president of the School Board, and an untiring friend of everyone, being always willing to lend a helping hand to those in distress, and to help out in any undertaking which would better the welfare of the city and the surrounding community.

"Our fourth recommendation is James McCairns. Mr. McCairns has done much in a charitable and philanthropic way both inside and outside of the city. We feel that to mention a number of his specific acts would be entering into the personal, which we have tried to avoid.

"Our fifth recommendation is that of Miss Sarah Seaton. We would recommend Miss Seaton for a number of reasons. First, for her untiring efforts to keep the Carnegie Free Library a going and efficient institution. Second, for what she has done for the children of Connellsville, namely, her efforts in having formed in the children at an early age the habit of reading good literature, which she has done by making them all feel at home when entering the Library, and directly supervising the materials that they read. Third, her most recent special endeavor to make the Connellsville Public Library a community center has been highly successful.

"We feel that many suggestions might be made, and many things added to this report in favor of our above recommendations. However, we feel that getting into the personal in telling of the accomplishments of our recommendations would hardly be fitting here at this time, because they are individuals known to the members of your organization."

Last Fire of 1923 Worst in Connellsville

Fire Chief W. E. Dellott reported to City Council that the fire loss in Connellsville during 1923, according to his estimate, was about $10,800. Of this sum the greatest loss occurred five minutes before midnight on December 31, when the coffee-roasting plant of the Wright-Metzler Company caught fire.

One hundred two alarms were answered by the department. In December there were 16, more than in any other one month. There were 14 in January, 13 in February, 15 in March, six in April, 11 in May, three in June, seven in July, five in August, two in September, six in October, and four in November.

Of the alarms 10 were false, 16 were automobiles and 20 were chimney fires. The department laid 6,000 feet of hose, used 805 gallons of chemicals and consumed 870 gallons of gasoline in the city's apparatus.

There were four trips out of the city for fires.

During the year 400 inspections of buildings were made.

The heaviest fire loss was during the last three months of the year with a total of nearly $9,000.

COKE REGION ON THE DEFENSIVE.

Coke operators and others who would be adversely affected by a further curtailment of the markets for beehive coke, and who are following closely the complaint of the Rainey-Wood Coke Company in the "coking-in-transit" case now before the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission, as being published in The Courier, find that very strong arguments have been presented in support of the position of the complainant.

It is apparent that a very thorough study has been made of the subject and that an imposing array of facts are asserted as true with respect to the contention that the existing bituminous coal rate structure is, as alleged, "unjust, unreasonable and unduly discriminatory and prejudicial."

The avowed object being to make possible the expansion of the by-product coking industry in eastern Pennsylvania at the expense of beehive coke in the same markets, invests the proceeding with a certain element of self-interest on part of the complainants which may prejudice or weaken their claims before the state regulatory body. But the same element has been present in practically every effort made in the direction of a readjustment of freight rates on other commodities.

The plain fact of the situation created by this movement in behalf of an application of the "in-transit" rate principle to bituminous coal, is that, if made effective, it will impose a very serious handicap on the beehive industry—so serious, in fact, that competition with by-product coke in all parts of the state virtually will be eliminated, or at least made much more difficult.

In view of such a possibility and the strength of the case as presented by the complainant, the operators of the Connellsville region are confronted with the very urgent necessity of preparing a strong defense. In the rate case of several year ago, which resulted in the removal of discriminating differentials against the local region, the operators joined hands in putting up so vigorous and well planned a fight that they won on all points. The same kind and as well directed an effort must be made now, the coke region being on the defensive this time.

CONGRESS AND IMMIGRATION.

It must be conceded that Secretary of Labor Davis and his subordinates in the Department of Labor are in such intimate touch with the operation of our immigration laws as to be much impressed with the necessity for the establishment of better regulations governing the admission of aliens.

As a result of the experience of his department and a special study of immigration, Secretary Davis has embodied his ideas of regulation in a bill which he has sent to Congress, the principal features of which are the selection and examination of immigrants at the port of embarkation and the compulsory registration of all aliens admitted or now resident in the United States.

Other and equally reasonable features of the proposed law include the suspension of quota limitations in case of a shortage of skilled, unskilled or farm labor, with a provision barring the quota suspension in case of labor dispute; the suspension of all immigration in times of unemployment; admission of certain classes of aliens such as students and seamen who do not intend to make the United States their permanent residence; distribution of national quotas over a period of 12 months; providing for the entry of families without being separated; extension of the law to cover Canada, Mexico, South and Central America, exempt under the existing law.

These provisions are fair to those who want to become American citizens. They also provide means of preventing the flooding of our country by hordes of undesirables who would never cease to be aliens no matter how long they resided here. In these particulars the present regulations are admittedly very defective.

Because of his familiarity with important phases of immigration which neither the public nor Congress understands, members of the national legislature will be serving the country's interests best if they allow themselves to be guided by the suggestions Secretary Davis has made. To do so will be much preferred to a shifty and evasive handling of the problem of immigration, the right solution of which is of such vital importance to the future of our country.

Almost Any Democrat Willing to be Candidate For Vice President

By LAWRENCE MARTIN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

CHAPTER III

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Among the Democrats, vice-presidential booms are beginning to sprout, though of course no candidate who has even a good "wishing chance" for the presidential nomination is yet ready to announce that he would be well satisfied with the second place on the ticket.

James W Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, has been coupled with William G McAdoo in the South Dakota convention Just how the South Dakota Democrats happened to pick out Gerard is not entirely evident, any more than it is clear why the Republicans there picked Senator Capper as Mr Coolidge's running mate.

Whenever a presidential campaign comes around, there is always a widespread impression that every member of the United States Senate is a candidate for one or the other of the two principal places on the ballot.

That is not strictly true, of course, any more than it is true that everybody in the country writes movie scenarios at some time in life But it is true enough to warrant the general statement that almost any senator who seems to have a chance of nomination or election to a higher job is a very willing Barkis.

Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi is highly regarded by some as vice-presidential timber Harrison has attracted much attention since coming to the senate, and is one of the most aggressive party men there He is popular also with his colleagues

Somebody named William Jennings Bryan the other day in connection with the vice-presidency. Bryan, however, has already put a candidate forward in the person of Representative Tyson of Kansas Governor Davis of Kansas also has been mentioned

Among the eastern Democrats, Senator Royal Copeland of New York, who surprised political sharps when he was elected to the senate from New York, is considered a prominent contender for vice-presidential honors no matter who the standard-bearer of the Democratic party is Governor Ritchie of Maryland, a "wet" Democrat, also will have some following for this place

vide business and revenue to the carriers other than in the movement of the coke made It does not recover tar, sulphate or other by-products, to be shipped by rail, but is a one commodity industry.

"Rail transportation enters into the distribution of beehive coke from producer to consumer only from the point of production to the ultimate destination and, in large part, involves the distribution of a few cars at many and widely scattered destinations, with consequent heavy demand upon railroad assemblage, classification and other facilities. Only small proportion of the total transportation of beehive coke is in connection with trainloads or large drafts of carloads from one point of origin to one point of destination.

"On the contrary, because of the necessity of continuous operation of by-product coke plants, they provide a regular and uniform volume of traffic to respondents, without seasonal or other peaks; and in particular operations continue at times and under market conditions when the coal and coke involved would not otherwise move at all Moreover the amount of revenue to respondents from transportation service incident to the supply of coke requirements in eastern Pennsylvania by complainant and other operators of by-product coke plants is far greater than respondents would derive if said requirements were supplied by beehive coke."

Taking up the subject of transportation equipment the complainant asserts that "In respect to the utilization of cars, the transportation of coke is more costly than the transportation of bituminous coal. This is due to the greater bulk of coke than of bituminous coal, for a given weight. Cars rated for and used to carry a given tonnage of bituminous coal are capable of carrying very much less tonnage when used to transport coke, with the result that many more cars of a given rated capacity must be provided, hauled and handled to transport a given tonnage of beehive coke."

It is averred that the average weight of bituminous coal mined in the Westmoreland and Greensburg districts is approximately 52.5 pounds per cubic feet and of coke 28 pounds per cubic feet "It follows," the complaint concludes "that a railroad car of a rated capacity of 70 net tons of bituminous coal will carry but slightly more than 37 net tons of coke. This is a rate of approximately 1.39 to 1 On this basis, any traffic requiring rail movement of coke, such as the beehive industry, would require the use, maintenance, hauling and handling of 139 cars to haul the same tonnage as that which could be handled in 100 cars of equal rated capacity if loaded with bituminous coal."

"When the distances involved in the loaded haul of coke are great, the difference in the number of cars required to transport a given tonnage of coke and coal increases not only the cost to the carriers for the loaded coke movement, with the accompanying assemblage, classification and terminal service, but in like manner increases the cost through the long and empty return movement of the greater number of cars. This results in a very much greater number of idle car-days, train miles and car miles of empty movement."

Present Rates Discriminatory.

Because of the facts thus set forth the freight rates on coal to Swedeland and coke from that point, are complained of as "unjust, unreasonable and unduly discriminatory" In consequence it is averred that "the burden of transportation charges on by-product coke is so great that if relief from these charges is not given, complainant and other owners of by-product coke plants will be deprived of their investment therein; the commonwealth and the public will be deprived of the inestimable benefits of the conservation of natural resources effected by those plants, which can be almost indefinitely extended and enlarged under favorable transportation charges; and the carriers will also be deprived of the greater and more constant revenue which they earn if the coke requirements of eastern Pennsylvania are supplied by by-product coke and not beehive coke.

"Complainant avers that existing conditions affecting the by-product coke industry in eastern Pennsylvania, which render the business extremely hazardous, remove it from the possibility of profitable operation and deprive it of the ability to engage in successful competition with the beehive coke industry, are mainly if not entirely due to the excessive, unjust, unreasonable and unduly discriminatory burden of transportation charges upon bituminous from western Pennsylvania to the plant and upon coke from the plant to points of consumption."

It is further averred that under freight rates that are "just, reasonable and non-discriminatory," it and other by-product plants can be operated "at a fair and reasonable profit If relief respecting such charges be afforded complainant will be enabled to take an important part in the future development of public gas supply throughout the Philadelphia District and to assist in avoiding an uneconomic and wasteful duplication of small plants devoted to the manufacture of gas to supply small sections of this district. Charges for public gas supply may thereby be maintained at lower levels, and adequate provision be made for sufficient service to this entire district, at less capital expenditure."

Lincoln's Principle and Mexico

Pittsburg Gazette Times

Abraham Lincoln stated that the principle at issue in the Civil War was whether, the people having established the Union, anybody could come along at any time and break it up If it were conceded that this could be done then there was an end of the Union and within no great space of time there would be an end of the states which succeeded the Union Of solidarity and stability there would be none on this continent

This was no pronouncement against revolution per se The right of people to self-government is inalienable, in the American view at least. This makes the case for popular uprisings against tyrannical governments and despotic rulers There can be no such thing practically as a revolt of the people against themselves. Popular government having been established, all power proceeds directly from the people and the machinery for orderly change is provided Revolution in a land that the people rule is anomalous and a crime.

Lincoln's principle might well have been cited by President Coolidge, had he felt called upon to defend and justify his decision to sell munitions of war to the government of Mexico now that political malcontents have started a "revolution" with intent to seize office and fasten themselves as unconstitutional rulers of the country Mexico suffered for scores of years from despotism. Revolution, was the only avenue of relief from the condition But, having adopted a Constitution that provides for popular election of its government, it is not appropriate that bullets be substituted for ballots and a president be installed by violent means instead of being elected

The Mexican insurgents have no claim upon the respect of any people, hence they have no claim to support for their cause from other nations, and their protest against legitimate dealings with the constitutional government of Mexico by friendly peoples is entitled to no consideration. Lincoln's principle is applicable here if ever it was applicable anywhere

Kelly & Jones Reduce Wages.

The first instance of reduced wages in any industry in this section outside that of the coal plants in Westmoreland county, was made last week when the Kelly & Jones Company announced a 10 per cent cut in wages at its South Greensburg plant, where 1,600 men are employed.

A BOOK.

Now, says a good book unto me,
Open my pages and you shall see
Jewels of wisdom and treasures fine,
Gold and silver in every line,
And you may claim them if you but will
Open my pages and take your fill.

Open my pages and run them o'er,
Take what you choose of my golden store
Be you greedy, I shall not care—
All that you seize I shall gladly spare
There is never a lock on my treasure doors,
Come in for my jewels and make them yours.

I am just a book on your mantel shelf,
But I can be part of your living self
If only you'll travel my pages through
I can then travel the world with you.
As two wines blended make better wine,
Blend your mind with these truths of mine.

I'll make you fitter to talk with men
I'll touch with silver the lines you pen
I'll lead you nearer the truth you seek
I'll strengthen you when your faith grows weak—
This place on your shelf is a prison cell,
Let me come into your mind to dwell!

ANIMALS ARE GOOD LINGUISTS

Horses and Dogs Learn and Remember Meaning of Words in More Than One Tongue.

Can horses and dogs pick up a foreign language and still remember that of the land of their birth?

This subject was broached by one of the speakers at the World Service exposition in Liverpool and it was declared that a British horse can recognize its own language abroad.

The experts who have been consulted agree that this is so. They emphasize the fact, however, that it is primarily the inflection of the voice that the animal learns to understand when sent to a foreign country. It pays much closer and quicker attention to the tone than to the sound of the words.

Dogs, like horses, remember the sound of the language of their masters, and even after many years in a foreign land can remember the meaning of sentences.

A clear proof of some dogs' cleverness is to be found in the way they pick up several native tongues and dialects when they leave their British masters in India and Africa, in places where several languages are spoken.

Cats, on the contrary, seem incapable of picking up more than their names in the language of the country in which they live; they do not deign to comprehend the human tongue, and a cat that does is exceptional.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

New Kind of Stamps.

The arrival of twins at a flat one evening caused a great sensation and the sister of the young mother was so impressed by the unexpected honor of being aunt to a pair that she lost her wits for the time being.

She rushed to the nearest post office and asked for stamps so that she might spread the glad tidings.

The clerk said, affably, "How many, miss?"

"Two," she cried, joyously

"What?"

"A boy and a girl," she said, then fell in dismay.

Cokers Victorious Over St. Vincent College; Is Sixth Straight Success

Team Showing Better Form Than Early in Season; at Scottdale Tomorrow.

IS FIRST LEAGUE GAME

Connellsville's High School basketball team, seemingly improving by leaps and bounds through the earnest efforts of its leaders and members, on Saturday night won another victory in its final pre-season clash, defeating the St. Vincent College aggregation. The score was 21-18, making the sixth straight win for Connellsville.

It was a neck and neck battle throughout and greatly pleased the spectators who braved the extremely cold weather to attend. Close guarding and brilliant passing featured.

The Cokers led by the scant margin of one point at the close of the first quarter and in the second frame both teams added just three points The half ended 10-9.

The Cokers widened the breach in the score by two points in the third period, that quarter closing with the figures at 16-12. In the final 10 minutes for every point rung up by the Orange and Black crew the Green passers also registered and when the game ended the three-point margin was just enough to win the game by more than a comfortable margin

Captain Welsh, ill with a sore throat, was in uniform. He did not start but was substituted for a short time and then withdrawn. It is hoped he will be improved by tomorrow evening when the first official league game of the year—with Scottdale at that place—will be played.

The line-up:

C. H. S.—21.		St. Vincent—18.
O'Donnell	F	Davin
Niland	F	Altany
LaRue	C	Neuroth
Wilhelm	G	Kerr
George	G	Soisson

Substitutions—Trump for Niland, Travis for Wilhelm, Delegat for Travis, Welsh for Delegat, Delegat for Welsh.

Field goals—O'Donnell 3 Davin 4, Niland 2, George, Kerr, Soisson.

Foul goals—O'Donnell 5 out of 8, LaRue, 4 out of 8; Davin, 4 out of 9, Altany, 2 out of 4.

Referee—Wall.

FAST ELEVEN TO BE FOUND IN BASEBALL

Easy Matter for Experts to Pick Star Aggregation.

Speaking about All-America football teams, it would be an easy matter for the experts to pick such an aggregation from the ball players who hold forth in the American league

Dick Reichle, now playing the outfield for the Boston Americans, was a star end at the University of Illinois

The New York Yankees have three renowned footballers on the roster. Mike Gazella, who plays shortstop, was a star halfback at Lafayette Outfielder Hinkle Haines was a sensation on the gridiron with Penn State Outfielder Hendricks is a former Vanderbilt star.

Riggs Stephenson, who second sacks for Cleveland, was a star halfback at University of Alabama, one of the greatest players the south has ever turned out.

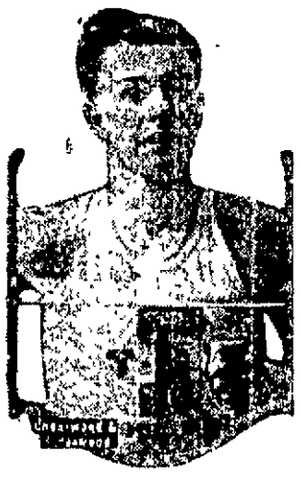
Shortstop Gagnon of Washington and Outfielder Bill Barrett of the White Sox started in football at Holy Cross

The White Sox have in Pitcher Cashner one of the greatest backs ever produced in the West He starred at Notre Dame and won much praise from Coach Rockne

First Baseman Lou Gehrig of the Yankees was a featured player at Columbia and Bob Knode of the Cleveland Indians played at Michigan

Experts who are really looking for an All-America football team can recruit it from Ban Johnson's league.

Iowa Star Is Winner



Harold R. Phelps University of Iowa cross country star, won the individual championship of the western conference at Columbus, O His time was 28 minutes 16 seconds and he will try out for the American Olympic team next spring in either the 5,000-meter run or the 3,000 meter steeplechase

World Series Hero Is Discarded by Giants

It doesn't pay to be a world series hero—especially on the New York Giants.

Casey Stengel, hero of 1923; Jess Barnes, hero of 1922, and Johnny Rawlings, hero of 1921, will tell you so.

Rawlings saved the game for the Giants in the series of 1921 by a miraculous stop and throw on the deciding play of the deciding battle. He was traded to the Phillies the next season.

Jess Barnes was the pitching ace for the Giants in the 1922 series with his wonderful ten-inning tie game against Bob Shawkey. He was traded last June to Boston.

Stengel won the only two games the Giants captured in the last series with home-run drives. Now he is traded to Boston.

Don't be a world series hero, say Stengel, Barnes and Rawlings, and save your job with the Giants.

The Galveston club has purchased from the Tulsa club the veteran second baseman, Charles (Paddy) Bammann, with the purpose, it is presumed, of making him manager of the Sandcrabs.

The Bloomington club of the Three-I has signed for a trial next spring a St. Louis youngster named Jesse Jackson. He is the nineteen-year-old brother of Charley Jackson, a star in the Three-I league several years ago.

The owners of the Milwaukee club plan to put on big league training stuff in the spring President Otto Borchert's idea is to pick out a town in Florida and play exhibition games with various major league teams training in that state.

Tennis teams from Harvard, Princeton, Yale and other American colleges will go to England next year to play a series of matches with Oxford, Cambridge and various British tennis clubs.

The average freshman student at the University of Pennsylvania weighs 6½ pounds more than he did before the war Thus all that is necessary to produce better football material is to have another war.

Yes, Its Our Treat! Have One On Us

A Triumph of American Industry

Here's our confidence in a $60,000,000 Business

ALL of this week, no matter what you buy from your dealer, or where you buy it, the coupon below is good for one full size five cent Eline's Almond Bar or a package of Eline's Pure Milk Chocolate.

We know; your dealer knows; and now we want you to know, "The Finest Milk Chocolate in the World".

We want every man, woman and child in this city to enjoy Eline's, this week, our treat.

We merely ask you to read these facts about the "Wonder Plant of Two Continents", get absolutely free, an Eline's delicious Almond Bar, or a package of Eline's Pure Milk Chocolate on "the tip of your tongue", and Eline's will always be "on the tip of your tongue" when you think, when you talk about, or when you eat "The Finest Milk Chocolate in the World".

Here are Eline's facts:

Eline's Facts

1. Located in the "Cream City" of America, Eline's is the newest, most gigantic most efficient and the finest initial milk chocolate factory in the world.
2. Almost at Eline's back door is produced the sweetest, purest milk in the world; surpassing that of even Denmark or Switzerland.
3. Only the finest milk in the world makes possible the finest milk chocolate in the world.
4. That in Eline's nothing is used but pure milk just as it comes from the dairy. No skimming of any kind is permitted, so that all the original cream will go into Eline's chocolate.
5. To absolutely insure the finest sugar, a very important part of the finest milk chocolate, Eline's has its own sugar refineries with a daily capacity of over 50,000 pounds.
6. The choice of the finest cocoa beans from which chocolate is made, no longer goes to Europe, but to America and to Eline's in the "Cream City" of America.
7. Eline's directly imports either Valencia almonds from Spain or the finest Italian "AA" grade exclusively and there is no compromise. These almonds are roasted to a brown, delicious turn in our ovens and over charcoal so that all the natural sweetness and deliciousness can be retained.
8. Eline's products are absolutely pure and not only delicious, but health building and wholesome for men, women and children, particularly children.
9. And finally, American ingenuity, American efficiency and American enterprise now make it possible for you to obtain a big, generous portion of deliciousness and purity for your 5 cents and 10 cents.

A BILL OF DIVORCEMENT—Showing today and tomorrow at this theatre is the film adaptation of Clemence Dane's drama which created a sensation in New York, Chicago and London with Constance Binney appearing in the stellar role.

A Bill of Divorcement is a significant production in more ways than one. It brings to the screen one of the last season's greatest triumphs at the stage. It played the entire season in New York to big audiences that were stirred to the very depths by the tremendous idea and power of the story which was the first dramatic effort of Miss Clemence Dane.

Splendid support is given Miss Binney in the persons of Mrs. Fay Compton, Malcolm Keen, who played the role of the father on the London stage, Henry Vibart, Henry Victor and others. Denison Clift adapted Miss Dane's drama for the screen and directed it.

Wednesday and Thursday The Man Between will be shown.

The Soisson

RED LIGHTS, a mystery drama adapted from Edward E. Rose's stage play, opens today at this theatre for a three day attraction.

It would be unfair to those who see the picture later to give the plot in detail, but it is a story of a young girl, Ruth Carson, the abducted daughter of a railroad magnate whose identity is at last discovered. This discovery begins a series of strange and mysterious warnings of imminent death. Her lover, John Blake, calls on his friend, Sheridan Scott, the crime detector, to protect the girl. Pursuits engaged in Chicago on the Lake Limited but the mysterious warnings and strange happenings finally culminate in a murder, the baffling appearance of balls of red light in the car continue to take place. The story comes to a climax when the rear car of the Limited is uncoupled from the train while it is going up a steep grade over the mountains and launched madly down hill towards the second section of the train. Catastrophe is averted only because the switch is turned and the rear car is shunted off on a blind siding. Here the mysteries are solved and the villains punished.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday The Beautiful and Damned will be shown.

The Orpheum

STRANGERS OF THE NIGHT, adapted from the stage play Captain Applejack is the feature picture today, Tuesday and Wednesday at this theatre. All star casts are sometimes discovered to be no star casts but Fred Niblo assembled a group of players who were individually famous when he began production on Strangers of the Night. For the role of Captain Applejack made famous in Walter Hatteras stage play from which Strangers of the Night was adapted he selected Matt Moore. Miss Enid Bennett remembered as Maid Marion in Robin Hood appears in the role of a demure little British girl while Barbara La Marr is the spectacularly beautiful Russian adventuress. Robert McKim is again a screen villain while such favorites as Otto Hoffman, Emily Fitzroy, Thomas Ricketts and Mathilde Brundage are exceptionally well cast.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday The Eternal Struggle will be shown.

Dawson

DAWSON, Jan. 5—Ernest Hockenberger is home from a few days visit at Warren, Ohio. He will leave Sunday to take up his studies at Lafayette College.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Crowell are visiting friends and relatives in Cleveland.

Miss Mary Moxin of Vanderbilt has accepted a position in the Dawson postoffice.

George Nowell of Lower Tyrone township was in town Friday. He had several of his Rhode Island Red chickens entered in the Uniontown poultry show. He won four prizes with his birds. He has some nice stock and is always glad to show them to his friends.

W. E. Beeson of East Liberty was a Uniontown visitor on Thursday.

Dawson Legionnaires.

Officers for the year will be installed tonight by Milton J. Newmyer Post No. 481 American Legion at the regular monthly meeting in Legion Home, 7:30 P. M. The Ladies Auxiliary will serve lunch.—Advertisement.—7 1t

Better Grocery Values

A careful inspection of a Union Supply Company grocery department will reveal the uniform high grade of all articles in stock. Each brand we have selected as representing the very best value to be had in its price class. You can thus be assured that for the price paid you are getting all the quality it is possible to get.

In addition to the selected brands, our own "Union" Brand of flour and rice is a positive guarantee of finest quality. They are not inferior goods prepared to sell at a certain price—but always the finest quality is strictly maintained.

The uniformly low prices at which Union Supply Company goods are sold is everywhere recognized. You could hardly do better to start the New Year than to investigate the advantages our grocery departments afford.

"H—!" he exclaimed, the blood rushing to his face. "Why—why, you—" The words failed him. He could only stare at her as if stunned by the most shocking confession.

"Please remember that you are speaking to—"

He broke in with a snarling laugh. "By thunder, I'm beginning to believe you're no better than she was. She wasn't anything but a common ——, and I'm blessed if I think it's sensible to marry into the family, after all."

"Oh!" she gasped, closing her eyes as she shrank away from him. The word he had used stood for the foulest thing on earth to her. It had never passed her clean, pure lips. For the moment she was petrified, speechless.

"It's about time you learned the truth about that d—d old hypocrite—if you don't know it already," he continued, raising his voice at the urge of the now reckless fury that consumed him. He stood over her shrinking figure, glaring mercilessly down into her horror-struck eyes. "You don't need to take my word for it. Ask Gwynne. He knows. He knows what happened back there in Kentucky. He knows she ran off with his father twenty years ago, taking him away from the woman he was married to. That's why he hates her. That's why he never had anything to do with his dog of a father. And he probably knows you were born out of wedlock—that you're ——"

CHAPTER XVI

The Blow.

He never finished the sentence. A whirlwind was upon him. Before he could raise a hand to defend himself, Kenneth Gwynne's brawny fist smote him squarely between the eyes. He went down as though struck by a sledge-hammer, crashing to the ground full six feet from where he stood. Behind that clumsy blow was the weight of a thirty-stone body, hurled as from a mighty catapult.

He never knew how long afterward it was that he heard a voice speaking to him. The words, jumbled and unintelligible, seemed to come from a great distance. He attempted to rise, gave it up and fell back dizzily. His vision was slow in clearing. What he finally saw, through blurred, uncertain eyes, was the face of Kenneth Gwynne, far above him—and it was a long time before it stopped whirling and became fixed in one place. Then he realized that it was the voice of Gwynne that was speaking to him, and he made out the words. Something warm and wet crept along the sides of his mouth, over his chin, down his neck. His throat was full of a hot nauseous fluid. He raised himself on one elbow and spat.

"Get up! Get up, you filthy whelp! I'm not going to hit you again. Get up, I say!"

He struggled to his knees and then to his feet, sagging limply against the fence, to which he clung for support. He felt for his nose, filled with a horrid, sickening dread that it was no longer on his face.

"I ought to kill you," he heard Gwynne saying. "You black-hearted, lying scoundrel. Get out of my sight!"

He succeeded in straightening up and looked about him through a mist of tears. He tried to speak, but could only wheeze and sputter. He cleared his throat ravenously and spat again.

"Where—where is she?" he managed to say at last.

"Shut up! You've dealt her the foulest—"

He broke off abruptly, struck by the other's expression. Lapelle was staring past him in the direction of the house and there was the look of a frightened, trapped animal in his glassy eyes.

"My G—d!" fell from his lips, and then suddenly he sprang forward, placing Kenneth's body between him and the object of his terror. "Stop her! For God's sake, Gwynne—stop her!"

For the first time since Barry went reeling to earth and lay as one dead, Gwynne raised his eyes from the blood-smeared face. Vaguely he remembered the swift rush of Viola's feet as she sped past him, but that was long ago and he had not looked to see whither she fled.

She was now coming down the steps of the porch, a half-raised rifle in her hands. He was never to forget her white, set face, nor the menacing look in her eyes as she advanced to the killing of Barry Lapelle—for there was no mistaking her purpose.

"Drop down!" he shouted to Lapelle. As Barry sank cowering behind him, he cried out sharply to the girl: "Viola! Drop that gun! Do you hear me? Good G—d, have you lost your senses?"

She came on steadily, her head a little to one side the better to see the partially obscured figure of the crouching man.

"It won't do you any good to hide, Barry," she said, in a voice that neither of the men recognized.

"Don't be a fool, Viola!" cried Kenneth. "Leave him to me. Go back to the house. I will attend to him."

She stopped and lifted her eyes to stare at the speaker in sheer wonder and astonishment.

"Why, you heard what he said. You heard what he called my mother. Stand away from him, Kenneth."

"I can't allow you to shoot him, Viola. You will have to shoot me first. My G—d, child—do you want to have a man's life-blood on your hands?"

"He said she ran away with your father," she cried, a spasm of pain crossing her face. "He said I was born before they were married. I have a right to kill him. Do you hear? I have a right to—"

"Don't you know it would be murder? Coldblooded murder? No! You will have to kill me first. Do you understand? I shall not move an inch. I am not going to let you do something you will regret to the end of your life. Put it down! Drop that gun, I say! If there is to be any killing, I will do it—not you!"

She closed her eyes. Her tense body relaxed. The two men, watching her with bated breath and vastly different emotions, could almost visualize the struggle that was going on within her. At last the long rifle barrel was lowered; as the muzzle touched the ground she opened her eyes. Slowly they went from Kenneth to the man who crouched behind him. She gazed at the bloody face as if seeing it for the first time.

The woman in her revolted at the spectacle. After a moment of indecision, she turned with a shudder and walked toward the house, dragging the rifle by the stock. As she was about to mount the steps she paused to send a swift glance over her shoulder and then, obeying the appeal in Kenneth's eyes, reluctantly, even carefully, leaned the gun against a post and disappeared through the door.

"Stand up!" ordered Gwynne, turning to Lapelle. "I ought to kill you myself. It's in my heart to do so. Do you know what you've done to her?"

Barry drew himself up, his foul swelling, bloodshot eyes filled with a deadly hatred. His voice was thick and unsteady.

"You'd better kill me while you have the chance," he said. "Because, so help me God, I'm going to kill you for this."

"Go!" thundered the other, his hands twitching. "If you don't, I'll strangle the life out of you."

Lapelle drew back, quailing before the look in Kenneth's eyes. He saw murder in them.

REOPENING OF RUBBER PLANT IS EXPECTED SOON

Sale of Scottdale Concern to Unnamed Interests Is Confirmed.

COUNCIL MEETS TONIGHT

By United Press.

SCOTTDALE, Jan. 7.—On Friday Federal Referee James Gray confirmed the sale of the Sherman-Stiveson Tire & Rubber Company's plant to the directors who bought it in when it was offered for sale some time ago.

While nothing definite could be learned, it was said that more money has been secured and that Ohio persons interested in the plant will put money into it and send an experienced man here to take charge. It is said the plant will soon be reopened.

Sherman-Stiveson tires were found to be long-wearing and giving satisfaction wherever they were sold.

School Board Meets Tonight.

The school board will meet for its first regular session of the New Year this evening.

Council Will Reorganize.

Council will meet at the borough building this evening at 8 o'clock to organize for the coming two years. The new councilmen recently elected will enter upon their duties.

Young Folks' Musicale.

Wiley, III, George Rhodes, Ruth Albanese, Ralph Auld, Alice Auld, Anna Ruth Emma Clyde Zearley, Stoddard Gray and Mary Jane Matthews. Guests were Penrose Mollinger and Howard Matthews, with violin, and Mary Ann Mollinger, at the piano.

Junior Musical Club.

The Junior Musical Club met at the home of Wayne Farmer Friday, with 20 members present. Officers for 1924 were elected as follows: President, Susan Glasgow; vice-president, Rebecca Wonner; secretary, Penrose Mollinger. The meeting was in charge of Mrs. Wagoner. The program opened with a reading on the life of Mozart by Mrs. Wagoner. Other numbers were: Piano solo, "Dragon Flies," Alice Auld; piano solo, "Slumber Song," and "Robins' Lullaby," Dorothy Campbell; piano solo, "An Autumn Afternoon," Virginia Louckes; vocal solo, "A Little Boy Called Pat," Betty Kate Stone; piano solo, "The First Violet," Jean Wiley; piano solo, "By the Mountain Spring," Susan Glasgow. After the program nursery rhymes, stunts were given by Mrs. Wagoner and a puzzle was given by Mrs. Stone. After this refreshments were served.

Bowling for Boys.

Mr. Heimbach, boys' work secretary at the Y. M. C. A., is making arrangements to form a boys' bowling league. He expects to get the league working at an early date.

About Bruce Struckoff.

The following was sent to The Courier relative to Bruce Struckoff of Everson, who was killed, along with James W. Cilion, at Hunker recently:

Bruce Struckoff was four months and one day past his 41st year. For 21 years he was a boilermaker and contractor. Besides his wife he is survived by eight children: Grace, Ethel, Alice, Mae, Dorothy, Evelyn, Ralph and Glenn; his mother, Mrs. Struckoff-Pletcher, and the following half-brothers and sisters—C. D. Pletcher, Arnold Pletcher, C. I. Pletcher, Mrs. John A. Miner and Mrs. B. H. Sipe. He was a member of the Lutheran Church.

High Rents Drive New York's Cliff Dwellers To Shocking Congestion

NEW YORK—Shocking conditions in tenement houses such as the above, where families of eight and ten crowd into three rooms, and lighting and sanitary conditions are unspeakable, must be corrected, according to Governor Al Smith.

High rents cause this unbelievable congestion, the report of the State Commission on Housing and Regional Planning showed. Tenants must pay from fifty to three hundred per cent higher than they did three years ago, though wages have only slightly increased.

Living standards are lowered to a level with the dark ages, and serious menace to city threatens if relief is not given, the commission declared.

All Fat People Should Know This

Fat people owe a debt of gratitude to the author of the now famous Marmola Prescription, and are still more indebted for the reduction of this harmless, effective obesity remedy to tablet form. Marmola Prescription Tablets can be obtained at all drug stores the world over at the reasonable price of one dollar for a box or you can secure them direct on receipt of price from the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. This now leaves no excuse for distinc or violent exercise for the reduction of the overfat body to normal.—Advertisement.

Dickerson Run

DICKERSON RUN, Jan. 5.—J. W. Flennikan and H. L. Gillespie were recent business callers at Masontown.

P. H. Fieldson of Vanderbilt was transacting business at McKees Rocks Thursday.

Lester Barricklow, William Barricklow and Albert Gray spent Friday the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barricklow at Herbert.

Miss Isabel Lint left Friday for Pittsburg where she entered the Presbyterian Hospital as a student nurse. She was formerly cashier for J. F. Black at Dickerson Run.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Shallenberger spent Thursday visiting their daughter, Mrs. George Ritenour at Pittsburg.

Ralph Newell attended the poultry show at Uniontown Thursday.

New Perfume Bottles and Handy Atomizers

The craze for perfume has brought into the market some lovely things in the form of bottles and atomizers, the latter an improvement on the old style, which had little of artistic value to recommend it. They are pretty bottles that have gold or enameled tops that when lifted are pressed back into place, the motion spraying the perfume from the sides. These are seen in a fine crystal set in an overcasing of open work, gold or silver. Some are in enamel, with jewels in the metal top.

A novelty of the daintiest type is a bottle so slender as to be worn on a chain, as a lorgnon might be, holding a few drops, perhaps, of some new perfume that is all the rage.

Getting the Expression.

The beautiful movie actress could roll her eyes and arch her brows, but she couldn't seem to get her diner shades. So the director thought he would try a little strategy.

"Now, Miss Resplendent, we shall have to shoot that scene again."

She took her position.

"Register indignation. Your last effort was rotten."

"Sir-r-r!"

"Hold it. That's more like indignation."

Natural Sequence.

"When I found myself in debt I went to father to raise the wind."

"Well, with what result?"

"I am now waiting for it to blow over."

INCOME TAX IN NUTSHELL.

WHO? Single persons who had net income of $1,000 or more or gross income of $5,000 or more, and married couples who had net income of $2,000 or more or gross income of $5,000 or more must file returns.

WHEN? The filing period is from January 1 to March 15, 1924.

WHERE? Collector of internal revenue for the district in which the person lives or has his principal place of business.

HOW? Instructions on Form 1040A and Form 1040 also the law and regulations.

WHAT? Four per cent normal tax on the first $4,000 of net income in excess of the personal exemption and credits for dependents. Eight per cent normal tax on balance of net income. Surtax from 1 per cent to 50 per cent on net incomes over $6,000 for the year 1923.

TIPS FOR TAXPAYERS.

No. 5.

Neither the personal exemption nor the $400 credit for dependents may be prorated on account of a change in status, marital or otherwise, of the taxpayer during the year. His status is determined as of the last day of the taxable year, December 31, if the return is filed on the calendar-year basis, as most are. For example, a married man with no dependents loses his wife just before the end of the taxable year. He must file his return as a single man, and is allowed only an exemption of $1,000. The law, however, works both ways. A man may wed on December 31, yet he is granted the exemptions allowed a married person for the full year.

Similar conditions exist with respect to the personal exemption allowed the head of a family and the credit for dependents. A person who has a dependent child, not mentally or physically defective, that attains the age of 18 years just prior to the last day of the year can not claim the credit for a dependent. If a dependent dies just before the end of the taxable year, no credit for such dependent is allowable. If during the year a head of a family ceases the support in his home of relatives, he is entitled only to the $1,000 exemption.

In the absence of continuous residence with the persons whom he supports, the question whether a person is head of a family within the meaning of the revenue act depends, as in the case of married persons, upon the character of the separation. If a child is away at school or on a visit, or through force of circumstances is maintained in a boarding house or with relatives, the exemption allowed the head of a family applies. But when needlessly and continuously the parties live apart the status of the head of a family does not apply, irrespective of the support given.

This Mother Knows the Value of

Father John's Medicine

"Just as soon as any of my family get a cold, I always give them Father John's Medicine. One of my babies as well as my husband had pneumonia two years ago, and I believe that Father John's Medicine helped them to regain their health. I always use Father John's Medicine just as soon as any of us get cold." (Signed) Mrs. John E. Nicholos, 2035 Hazel street, Erie, Pa.

For building up strength to resist colds and coughs as well as to get rid of them, Father John's Medicine has proved its value by more than 68 years of success. It is the standard family medicine in thousands of homes all over the country. Guaranteed free from alcohol and dangerous drugs in any form.—Advertisement.

Authentic Styles For Spring

- as shown in new Pictorial Patterns

THE PICTORIAL Review Style Book for Spring 1924 — and the new Pictorial Review patterns, just received — bring an answer to the thought now uppermost in every woman's mind — "What are the new Spring styles to be?" Last minute tendencies are described as follows—

"Lines remain practically unchanged in the new Spring styles. The straight, youthful silhouette, so essentially becoming to all figures, leads in these latest modes, as it has in those of the past few seasons. But this does not mean that there is a hint of monotony or a lack of variety in the latest fashions, for in the details of the straight line costume many new and interesting notes have been introduced that instantly mark a creation of the moment. Prominent among these changes are many smart tier, tunic and panel effects applied to the beltless sheath frock, which in turn, is often seamed at the hip-line, or takes on one of the new 'gypsy sashes.'"

"Another style influence is that of the Russian blouse costume, with its slightly flared or perfectly straight tunic reaching almost to the bottom of a narrow skirt. Other modish features are the marked front movement of the skirt of a costume, a low waist, and a bodice much bloused at the sides over the hips.

"The sleeveless frock is still in the fashion picture, but many costumes display the full-length sleeve, severely tailored or adorned with wide circular frills at the wrists of self fabric or lingerie."

These and many other new fashion notes are displayed in the frocks which can be made from new Pictorial Review patterns, priced from

30c to 45c

Spring Style tendencies are described in greater detail in the Pictorial Review Fashion Book.
